REGULATIONS

ADOPTED OCTOBER 11, 1884.

1. THE ARCHAEOLOGICAL INSTITUTE OF AMERICA, consisting of a number of affiliated societies, is formed for the purpose of promoting and directing archaeological investigation and research,—by the sending out of expeditions for special investigation, by aiding the efforts of independent explorers, by publication of archaeological papers and of reports of the results of the expeditions which the Institute may undertake or promote, and by any other means which may from time to time appear desirable.

2. The Archaeological Institute shall consist of Annual and of Life Members, the former being those persons, approved by the Council, who shall pay an annual assessment of $10, and the latter such as shall contribute at one time not less than $100 to its funds. Classes of Honorary and Corresponding Members may be formed at the discretion of the government of the Institute, and under such regulations as it may impose.

3. The government of the Institute shall be vested in a Council, annually chosen by the members of the affiliated societies, as follows:—

Any local archaeological society, consisting of not less than ten members of the Institute, may, by vote of the Council, be affiliated with the Institute. Any such local society shall have the right to elect one member to the Council. When the members of such society shall exceed fifty, they shall have the right to elect a second member to the Council, and similarly another member for each additional fifty.

4. The Council shall hold an Annual Meeting on the second Saturday of May, at 11 o'clock A. M., at such place as may be selected by its members at the previous Annual Meeting. Any member of the Council unable to be present at any meeting may appoint by writing any other member to act as his proxy. One half of all the members of the Council, present in person or by proxy, shall form a quorum.

5. Special meetings of the Council may be called by the Secretary, upon direction of the President, or at the written request of one third of its members.

6. At the Annual Meeting the Council shall elect one of its members as President, and another as Vice-President of the Institute. These officers shall be eligible for re-election.

7. A Secretary and Treasurer of the Institute shall be chosen by the Council, and shall hold office at its pleasure. The Secretary shall keep a record of the transactions of the Council, and shall perform such other duties as pertain to his office. The Treasurer shall collect, receive, and keep account of all assessments, subscriptions, and gifts of money to the Institute, shall pay its dues, and shall present to the Council at its Annual Meeting a written statement of accounts.

8. Assessments, subscriptions, and donations may be paid to the Treasurer, or to any member of the Council. No person, not a life member, who has not paid his dues as member for the year then past, shall be entitled to vote in the election of members of the Council. The year shall be considered as closing with the end of the Annual Meeting, and from this time the assessment for the year then ensuing shall become due.

9. Ten per cent of all annual dues received from each affiliated Society shall be held by the Treasurer, subject to the call of the Treasurer of the affiliated Society, for the discharge of local expenses. In case any Society does not in any year require the whole of this sum, the balance shall, at the end of the year, be passed into the general funds of the Institute, not subject to future call. Grants in aid of local societies may be made by the Council.

10. The accounts of the Institute shall be submitted annually by the Treasurer to two Auditors, to be appointed by the President, who shall attest by their signatures the correctness of said accounts, and report the same at the annual meeting.

11. The Council shall have full power to determine the work to be undertaken by the Institute, and the mode of its accomplishment; to employ agents, and to expend all the available funds of the Institute for the purpose for which it is formed; but it shall not have the power to incur any debt on behalf of the Institute. It shall have no other jurisdiction over the regulations or actions of the affiliated local Archæological Societies, than that these societies shall not undertake any formal publication without its consent; and any moneys contributed for any object promoted by a local society, approved by the Council, shall be strictly appropriated to that object.

12. At each Annual Meeting the Council shall appoint a Standing Committee of not less than three of its members, to edit the publications of the Institute for the ensuing year, and to prepare an Annual Report to be presented in print at the next Annual Meeting.

13. Any collections of antiquities which may come into the possession of the Institute through the explorations undertaken by it, or otherwise, may be sold, at the discretion of the Council, to the museum or other public institution in the United States which may offer for them the largest sum; it being understood that contributions toward the cost of any exploration may be assigned by the donors to the credit of any museum or public institution as part of the purchase money.

14. A general meeting of the Institute may be called from time to time, at the discretion of the Council.

15. Each member of the Institute shall receive a copy of every publication of the Institute issued during the period of his membership.

16. The names of all affiliated societies and members shall be printed with the annual report of the Council.

17. Each affiliated society shall be designated by its local name in the following style:—

ARCHÆOLOGICAL INSTITUTE OF AMERICA.

BALTIMORE SOCIETY.

And it shall have the right to use the seal of the Institute on its official papers.

18. Amendments to these regulations, of which printed notice has been sent to each member of the Council not less than two weeks previously, may be proposed by any three members at any Annual Meeting, and shall require for adoption the affirmative vote of three fourths of the whole number of members of the Council.

RULES OF THE BOSTON SOCIETY.

ADOPTED MAY, 1885.

1. THE BOSTON SOCIETY OF ARCHAEOLOGY, organized under the regulations of the Archaeological Institute of America, is formed of members of the Institute resident in New England not belonging to any other society affiliated with the Institute, and of such members outside of New England as may elect to be enrolled in it.
2. The entire government of the Society, including the election of members, is vested in an Executive Committee of seven members, to be chosen annually to serve for one year, or until the election of their successors.
3. The Executive Committee shall choose from its own number a President and Vice-President, and may appoint a Secretary and Treasurer. It shall have no power to involve the Society in any expense not covered by its share of the funds of the Institute, and may not levy any tax upon the members in addition to their annual subscription.
4. The annual meeting of the Society shall be held in Boston on the first Saturday of May at 11 o'clock A.M., when the Executive Committee shall report upon the work of the Society and of the Institute during the preceding year. Special meetings may be called at any time by the President, by three members of the Executive Committee, or by any ten members of the Society.
5. These rules may be changed only at an annual meeting, upon due notice.

RULES OF THE NEW YORK SOCIETY.

ADOPTED FEBRUARY 19, 1885.

1. THE NEW YORK SOCIETY is organized under the regulations of the Archæological Institute of America, for the purpose of carrying out more fully the objects for which the Institute is established.
2. The New York Society shall include those members of the Institute who are residents in the cities of New York and Brooklyn, and such other members as may elect to belong to it. Candidates for membership may be proposed by any member of the Society. The Society shall have no power to levy assessments upon its members in addition to their annual subscription.
3. The officers of the Society shall be a President, a number of Vice-Presidents, a Secretary, a Treasurer, and a Committee on Membership. This Committee shall have final power, and shall consist of six members, and of the President of the Society ex officio.
4. An annual meeting shall be held on the second Saturday of November in each year, for the election of officers and of delegates to the Council of the Institute, and for the transaction of business. Ten members present shall constitute a quorum. All officers shall be chosen by ballot, to serve one year or until their successors are chosen. But no member of the Committee on Admissions, except the President, shall serve for more than two consecutive years.
5. Special meetings for special purposes shall be called from time to time, at the discretion of the President.
6. The President and Treasurer shall have authority to use for the current expenses of the Society the money set apart for that purpose under the regulations of the Institute, and the Treasurer shall make an annual report to the Society of such expenditures. They shall have no power to involve the Society in debt.
7. These rules shall not be altered or amended except at an annual meeting.

RULES OF THE BALTIMORE SOCIETY.

ADOPTED FEBRUARY 22, 1888.

1. THE BALTIMORE SOCIETY of the Archaeological Institute of America is organized under the Regulations of the Institute adopted Oct. 11, 1884; and is intended to include those members of the Institute resident in Baltimore, and such other members as may choose to belong to it.
2. The officers of the Society shall consist of a President, four Vice-Presidents, a Secretary, and a Treasurer; which officers shall also, ex officio, constitute an Executive Committee. These officers shall serve for one year, or until the election of their successors.
3. The entire government of the Society is vested in the Executive Committee, which shall be, also, a Committee on Membership, having full power to elect new members, and having the function to use diligent effort to extend the interest in the work of the Society, and to increase its membership.
4. The officers shall not have power to incur for the Society any expense not covered by its share of the funds of the Institute, or to assess the members more than the annual dues of $10.
5. An annual meeting of the Society shall be held, in Baltimore, on the last Saturday in April, for the election of officers and of delegates to the Council of the Institute, and for any other business. Special meetings of the Society may be called at any time by the President. The quorum of the Society shall be constituted by seven members present.
6. These rules shall not be changed except at an annual meeting, or at a special meeting called by the President for the purpose of considering such a change; and notice of the proposed change shall be sent to members three weeks before the meeting.

RULES OF THE CHICAGO SOCIETY.

ADOPTED NOVEMBER, 1889.

1. THE CHICAGO SOCIETY of the Archæological Institute of America is formed of such members of the Institute resident in Illinois as do not belong to any other Society affiliated with the Institute, and of such members outside of Illinois as may elect to be enrolled in it.
2. The entire government of the Society, including the election of members, is vested in an Executive Committee of eleven members, to be chosen annually to serve for one year, or until the election of their successors. The Committee is empowered to fill such vacancies as may occur through the demise or resignation of any of its members. Five members of the Executive Committee shall constitute a quorum.
3. The Executive Committee shall choose from its own number a President and two Vice-Presidents, and may appoint a Secretary and a Treasurer. It shall have no power to involve the Society in any expense not covered by its share of the funds of the Institute, and may not levy any tax upon the members in addition to their annual subscription.
4. The annual meeting of the Society shall be held in Chicago on the first Saturday of November at 8 o'clock P. M., when the Executive Committee shall report upon the work of the Society and of the Institute during the preceding year. Special meetings may be called at any time by the President, by three members of the Executive Committee, or by any ten members of the Society.
5. These rules may be changed at an annual meeting only, and notice of the proposed change shall be sent to members a fortnight before the meeting.

RULES OF THE DETROIT SOCIETY.

ADOPTED NOVEMBER 28, 1889.

1. THE name of the Society shall be The Archaeological Institute of America, — Detroit Society.
2. The members shall consist of residents of Detroit, or of any other city or town in the State of Michigan.
3. The officers shall consist of a President, two Vice-Presidents, a Secretary, and a Treasurer. There shall be an Executive Committee of five. The President and First Vice-President shall be ex officio members thereof.
4. The entire government of the Society, including the election of members, shall be vested in the Executive Committee, subject to the direction and control of the Society.
5. The annual meeting shall be held on the first Saturday in November of each year, for the election of officers and for the transaction of such business as may come before it. Ten members shall constitute a quorum.
6. All officers shall be chosen by ballot, to serve one year, or until their successors are chosen.
7. Special meetings may be called by the President.
8. The moneys of the Society shall be expended under the direction of the President and Treasurer, under the supervision and control of the Executive Committee.
9. The annual dues shall be $10. Life members shall be exempt from the payment of all dues on the payment of $100. The Society shall have no power to levy any assessment on members in addition to their annual dues, nor incur any indebtedness beyond the cash means of the Society.

RULES OF THE MINNESOTA SOCIETY.

ADOPTED DECEMBER 6, 1889.

1. THE MINNESOTA SOCIETY of the Archaeological Institute of America is organized under the Regulations of the Institute adopted October 11, 1884; and is intended to include those members of the Institute resident in Minnesota, and such other members as may choose to belong to it.

2. The officers of the Society shall consist of a President, a Vice-President, and a Secretary and Treasurer; which officers shall also, ex officio, constitute an Executive Committee. These officers shall serve for one year, or until the election of their successors.

3. The entire government of the Society is vested in the Executive Committee, which shall be also a Committee on Membership, having full power to elect new members, and having the function to use diligent effort to extend the interest in the work of the Society, and to increase its membership.

4. The officers shall not have power to incur for the Society any expense not covered by its share of the funds of the Institute, or to assess the members more than the annual dues of $10.

5. An annual meeting of the Society shall be held, at such place as is designated by the Executive Committee, on the last Saturday in April, for the election of officers and of delegates to the Council of the Institute, and for any other business. Special meetings of the Society may be called at any time by the President or by any three members of the Executive Committee. The quorum of the Society shall be constituted by five members present.

6. These rules shall not be changed except at an annual meeting, or at a special meeting called by the President or by any three members of the Executive Committee, for the purpose of considering such a change; and notice of the proposed change shall be sent to members three weeks before the meeting.

RULES OF THE WISCONSIN SOCIETY.

ADOPTED DECEMBER 6, 1889.

1. THE WISCONSIN SOCIETY of the Archæological Institute of America is organized under the Regulations of the Institute adopted October 11, 1884, and is intended to include those members of the Institute resident in Wisconsin, and such other members as may choose to belong to it.

2. The officers of the Society shall consist of a President, four Vice-Presidents, and a Secretary and Treasurer; which officers shall also, ex officio, constitute an Executive Committee. These officers shall serve for one year, or until the election of their successors.

3. The entire government of the Society is vested in the Executive Committee, which shall be, also, a Committee on Membership, having full power to elect new members, and having the function to use diligent effort to extend the interest in the work of the Society, and to increase its membership.

4. The officers shall not have power to incur for the Society any expense not covered by its share of the funds of the Institute, or to assess the members more than the annual dues of $10.

5. An annual meeting of the Society shall be held, at such place as is designated by the Executive Committee, on the last Saturday in April, for the election of officers and of delegates to the Council of the Institute, and for any other business. Special meetings of the Society may be called at any time by the President, or by any three members of the Executive Committee. The quorum of the Society shall be constituted by seven members present.

6. These rules shall not be changed except at an annual meeting, or at a special meeting called by the President or by any three members of the Executive Committee, for the purpose of considering such a change; and notice of the proposed change shall be sent to members three weeks before the meeting.

ELEVENTH ANNUAL REPORT.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE ARCHÆOLOGICAL INSTITUTE:—

THE past year has been of no inconsiderable importance and interest in the history of the Institute, although it has not carried on directly any work in the field.

At the annual meeting of the Council, held in New York on the 11th of May, 1889, information having been received that the Greek government would grant to the Institute the concession of the privilege to excavate the site of Delphi, provided the sum required for the expropriation of the village of Kastri, now standing on the site, should be obtained before the 1st of December, the following Preamble and Resolutions were unanimously adopted:—

“Whereas, the opportunity now offered to explore and excavate the site of ancient Delphi is unique in its importance, and should not be allowed to escape, and

“Whereas, if the work is to be done, it is the obvious duty of the Institute to undertake it, therefore,

“Resolved, that the Council issue an address to the public, promising to conduct the excavation for five years, provided a sum of not less than $75,000 be raised for the purchase and expropriation of land at Kastri.

"Resolved, that such excavation shall be conducted under the management of the American School at Athens.

"Resolved, that the Council pledges for five years so much of the income of the Institute as may remain after the usual necessary appropriations have been met, and not exceeding $5,000 in any one year."

A Committee, consisting of the President, Professor W. R. Ware, and Mr. Russell Sturgis, was appointed to prepare the Address to the Public, and to take such measures as might seem best fitted for securing the required sum for the purchase of the site. The Address was accordingly drawn up, but various public circumstances led the Committee to defer its issue until the early autumn. It was then published, signed by the members of the Council, and by other persons whose co-operation in the work was deemed likely to add to the weight of the appeal with the public. A copy of the Address, with the signatures attached, is appended to this Report.

It was obvious to the Committee having the matter in charge that special exertions would be needed in order to obtain so considerable a sum for an object the importance of which to the interests of the higher education of America might not be at once fully appreciated. Accordingly they resolved to ask Mr. William C. Lawton to act as salaried agent for the Institute, to endeavor to arouse interest in the work, to solicit subscriptions, and at the same time to increase the membership of the Institute. Mr. Lawton accepted the proposal made to him, and entered upon his duties in July. His zeal, industry, and intelligence have been productive of great gain to the Institute, though the response to his well directed efforts did not correspond as regards subscriptions to the expectations, much less to the hopes, of the Council. It soon became evident that the sum required for the concession of the site of Delphi could not be obtained within the limit of time originally fixed. There seemed, however, to be sufficient ground for belief that the amount might be raised by persistent effort, if a longer period were allowed for the work. A representation of the conditions was accordingly made to the Greek government, through Dr. Waldstein, then in Athens, and the limit of time for securing, if possible, the required sum was graciously extended. An independent committee of persons interested in the matter was thereupon formed in Boston, early in the present year, and through its efforts a subscription of about twenty-five thousand dollars has been made in Boston and its neighborhood. This subscription, added to what had previously been subscribed, mainly in New England, in response to the original appeal to the public, and to Mr. Lawton's efforts, makes the sum actually obtained up to the present time something more than $30,000.

To this amount New York, Baltimore, Washington, Chicago, and the West generally, have contributed

The Council cannot but regard this as a disappointing and unsatisfactory result. In spite of the generally ready and liberal response of the wealthier part of the community to innumerable calls for contributions to objects more or less deserving, an enormous surplus of private means remains to be used for the public welfare. The comparative indifference to the Delphi project is, doubtless, largely due to the fact that it gives no positive assurance of brilliant tangible results, and holds out the certain promise only of intellectual gains and immaterial honors. And therefore, though the work is of a nature to stimulate interest in the things best worthy of study, and to touch the imagination of every person susceptible to the appeal of poetic association and noble memories, this general indifference to it is not perhaps surprising. But it is matter of surprise, that, among the many rich men in our many rich cities, not one should have been moved by the certainty of honorable and enduring recognition and remembrance to supply the means for a work that would connect his name with the history of Greece herself.

The Council are unwilling to give up the hope of ultimate success in raising the comparatively small sum now required. They renew their appeal to the members of the Institute and to the public. If each member of the Institute would give or would obtain the sum of fifty dollars, the work would be practically done. If this opportunity be allowed to pass, we shall have failed to secure the one supreme prize which Classical Archaeology has to offer, and thereby lost the splendid exceptional occasion for taking the lead, for the time being, in the work of adding to knowledge of the most interesting monuments of Greek antiquity. It is not to be admitted that our West, full of energy and intelligence and wealth, will fail to do her part. If she will but add as much as has been now subscribed in the East, the completion of the sum is certain.

It is to the West that the Council naturally turns for aid at this moment, because it has the great satisfaction of recording the establishment during the past year of four vigorous branch Societies, in Chicago, Detroit, Minneapolis, and Madison. No event in the history of the Institute has been of such promise as this in regard to the extent and vigor of its work. The desire so often expressed in previous Reports for the co-operation of the West is now gratified. The national character of the Institute is more manifest than ever, and its resources are largely increased.

In view of the actual and prospective growth of the Institute, the question of the best method by which the independent life and interest of each Society may be best maintained, in connection with the common work of the Institute as a single organization, deserves careful consideration.

It appears to the Council to be desirable, that, while it should carry on, in charge of the Institute at large, some investigation, like that which it hopes to undertake at Delphi, or like that which it conducted through Mr. Bandelier in New Mexico, each local Society should, if possible, undertake some independent work, the direction of which should be entirely in the hands of the Society's officers. Thus, supposing a Society to raise the means for supporting an investigator in the field, in Mexico, or in Central or South America, for the performance of a special task, or for general research, his reports should be made to the Society, and then sent to the General Secretary for submission to the Council, and for publication in the regular series of the Papers of the Institute, due credit being given in the volume to the special Society. In accordance with the By-Laws framed for the sake of securing harmony in the efforts of the Institute, the proposed undertakings of each Society require the approval of the Council, on which every Society is fully represented according to the number of its members. If any Society should not be able to obtain the means for prosecuting independent work, its own conditions will suggest to it other modes for quickening and maintaining interest in the studies which it is established to promote.

The Council look for a further increase of branches during the coming year. The condition of the Institute is satisfactory, provided it succeeds in securing Delphi. During the past year the Council has had the pleasure of sending out to the members the first part of Mr. Bandelier's Final Report on his Investigations in the Southwest,—a contribution of very great value to American Archæology. With the School at Athens answering every legitimate expectation, with new volumes of Papers in press adding to our knowledge alike of American and of Classical Antiquity, with an increasing prospect of future usefulness, the Institute is fulfilling the hopes of its founders.

I.

REPORT OF THE NEW YORK SOCIETY TO THE COUNCIL,

FOR THE YEAR ENDING MAY 19, 1890.

THE New York Society presents to the Council of the Archaeological Institute of America its Report for the year ending May 10, 1890.

At the annual meeting of the Society, held in November, 1889, Mr. De Peyster declining to serve as President for another year, Dr. Henry Drisler was elected President. The former Vice-Presidents were re-elected, viz.: Dr. Howard Crosby, Judge Charles P. Daly, Mr. Henry G. Marquand, and Bishop Henry C. Potter. Professor Ware declining to serve for another year, and being about to leave the country, Mr. Russell Sturgis was elected Secretary. The Treasurer, Mr. M. Taylor Pyne, was re-elected.

The Committee on Membership had served only one year; but it was stated and urged by members of that committee that it was expedient that frequent changes should take place; it was assumed that the influence possessed by one committee, and its power of getting members, would be nearly exhausted during the first year of its incumbency, and that a new committee had better begin the new year. This view being accepted, as it would seem, by the members present at the annual meeting, a new committee was elected, consisting of Mr. Henry O. Avery, Mr. Alfred Gudeman, Professor William G. Hale, Mr. Edward H. Kendall, Professor Allan Marquand, and Professor Fitz Gerald Tisdall, the President being a member ex officio. Professor Augustus C. Merriam was elected a Delegate to the Council of the Institute, to replace Mr. Harper, who had resigned during the summer; the other members of the Council, holding over, were Dr. Drisler, Mr. De Peyster, Mr. Sturgis, and Professor Marquand.<sup>1</sup>

The membership, at the time of this annual meeting of the Society, consisted of seventeen Life Members and one hundred and eighty-seven Annual Members. Of these Annual Members, some few had already sent in their resignations, or had intimated their wish to resign. The next ensuing sending of the Treasurer's bills brought these resignations forward, or called attention to them, and early in the year five of them were put on record. There have been lost by death, Miss Julia Gibbons,—who, however, had died before the last Annual Meeting, though not so recorded on the Secretary's list,—Robert B. Minturn, Henry O. Avery, and John Jacob Astor. We have therefore to deduct nine names from the above list of two hundred and four Life and Annual Members. The energy of the newly elected Committee on Membership has resulted in the accession of sixty-four new members, of whom nine are Life Members. One member of the Institute has been transferred from the Boston Society to the New York Society, namely, Professor Thomas D. Seymour of New Haven. The present roll of membership is therefore twenty-five Life Members and two hundred and thirty-five Annual Members.

The increase in membership has entitled the Society to a sixth member of the Council, and the place so made has been filled by the election of Professor Seymour.

The attempt to hold archæological and artistic meetings, where subjects of permanent interest and value should be treated of and discussed, which was so successful last year, has been renewed this year, though perhaps with less success. Perhaps the absence of our beloved former Secretary, Professor Ware, perhaps the curious epidemic illness which affected New York society so much in the middle of the winter, perhaps other causes, have made the meetings less full in their attendance than could be wished, and have deprived them of much of that enthusiasm and movement without which they can hardly be supported very successfully. It is to be put on record, however, that the latest meetings, namely, those held during the month of April, have been much fuller than those held early in the winter.

<sup>1</sup> At a subsequent meeting of the Society, Dr. Drisler resigned his seat in the Council, and Hon. Seth Low was elected in his place, in accordance with the terms of Mr. Low's election to the Presidency of the Institute.

The following papers have been read, or addresses delivered, viz.: Mr. William C. Lawton, the newly appointed agent of the Institute delivered an address on the Archæological Institute and its ends and aims, with special reference to Delphi, on the 4th of December; on the 20th of December, Mr. Thomas Davidson read a paper on the subject, "The Homeric Myths: Are they Hellenic?"; on the 10th of January, Mr. F. S. Dellenbaugh delivered an address with lantern illustrations on "Native Architecture of the Southwest"; on the 31st of January, Professor A. C. Merriam read a paper on "Telegraphing among the Ancients," with especial reference to the fire signals of the Greeks, which address is about to be issued by the Institute; on the 21st of April, Professor A. L. Frothingham of Princeton delivered an address with lantern illustrations on the subject "Among the Old Cities and Monasteries near Rome"; and on the 5th of May, Professor Allan Marquand of Princeton delivered an address on "The Origin of Doric Architecture." There is still to be delivered an address by Dr. Alfred Gudeman, "Literary Frauds among the Ancients," which is set down for the evening of the 19th of May.

It will be observed that the speakers this year have been, almost altogether, different from those of last year. The attempt has been to make the list of our possible lecturers as large as may be. In this way, ten different gentlemen have been secured as competent and instructive speakers, and there are three or four more who could be counted upon on almost any occasion, who have been prevented by minor accidents from addressing us. There is no reason why this list should not be greatly increased. Although New York is not a place where scholarship occupies a large proportional amount of time and interest, the aggregate amount is large, and another year ought to see our list of possible speakers increased to a score or more. It should be the business of the officers of the next Society year to see to this, because evidently the first step in making the subject of archæology interesting, and the status of our Institute honorable and influential, is to make the subject itself a little less strange and unfamiliar than it has hitherto been.

The Society desires to express in this place its strong sense of the uniform kindness of the authorities of Columbia College in granting us the use, night after night, of an excellent room, lighted, heated, and cared for in a manner which left nothing to be desired. The great service which Columbia College does the community by its willing aid in these matters cannot be too highly appreciated. Without this help, it would be difficult for us to hold our meetings.

The large addition to our membership, and the serious work done in the way of meetings and addresses, have not been without considerable outlay, and the Society frankly owns to having largely exceeded in expense the amount allowed to it by the terms of the regulations of the Institute.

The Treasurer's Report is as follows : —

NEW YORK SOCIETY OF ARCHAEOLOGY

In Account with M. TAYLOR PYNE, Treasurer, for six months ending May 11, 1890.

| DR.   | CR.             |

|   | $2,777.82      |
| E. & O. E.  | $2,777.82      |

(Signed,)      M. TAYLOR PYNE, Treasurer.

The Treasurer also reports that there is due one Life Member's fee of $100, and the considerable sum of $1030 from Annual Members' assessments, of which much the largest part is only recently due and payable. It is to be feared, however, that some small part of the total amount due will never be received, as there are members of the Society who are thoughtless of their obligations, and seem hardly to realize that they have assumed the responsibilities of membership.

It will be seen that the outlay of the Society for the year has been double its proper share of the income which is gained for the Institute. Two hundred and thirty-five Annual Members entitle us to $235 of annual expense, and no more ; but almost exactly this sum was expended during the preceding year of 1888-89. The larger expenses of this year have been caused partly by an increased number of meetings, partly by the very considerable expense of sending out an invitation signed by the Committee on Membership, and addressed to about fifteen hundred citizens of New York and vicinity, and finally by the printing of an enlarged and carefully revised List of Membership. It is to be remembered that, with a society as large as the present one, the cost of sending away every individual missive, by the post or otherwise, is considerable. Thus, when there was occasion to send out Mr. Bandelier's latest volume, together with the Athens School Report, the expense was $30, and this by contract,—a very considerable saving being made from what would have been the regular rates by either mail or carrier.

Under the present regulations of the Institute and of the Society, which last forbid the making of any assessments upon the members other than the $10 a year due the Institute, there seems no issue from this difficulty. As regards the past year, the Society can only beg the Council to confirm the action of the officers of the New York Society in paying these bills.<sup>1</sup>

RUSSELL STURGIS, Secretary.

II.

APPEAL TO THE PUBLIC FOR THE FUND REQUIRED TO SECURE THE EXPROPRIATION OF KASTRI.

DEAR SIR,—At the annual meeting of the Council of the ARCHAEOLOGICAL INSTITUTE, held in New York on the 11th of May, 1889, information having been received that the Greek government had offered to the Institute the concession of the privilege to excavate the site of Delphi, provided the sum required for the expropriation of the village of Kastri, now standing on the site, should be obtained before the 1st of December next, the following Preamble and Resolutions were unanimously adopted:—

“Whereas, the opportunity now offered to explore and excavate the site of ancient Delphi is unique in its importance, and should not be allowed to escape, and

“Whereas, if the work is to be done, it is the obvious duty of the Institute to undertake it, therefore,

“Resolved, that the Council issue an address to the public, promising to conduct the excavation for five years, provided a sum of not less than $75,000 be raised for the purchase and expropriation of land at Kastri.

“Resolved, that such excavation shall be conducted under the management of the American School at Athens.

“Resolved, that the Council pledges for five years so much of the income of the Institute as may remain after the usual necessary appropriations have been met, and not exceeding $5,000 in any one year.”

The investigation of the remains at Delphi is the most interesting and important work now remaining to be accomplished in the field of Classical Archaeology. The part which Delphi played in the history of Greece is too well known to need recounting. The imagination of every man who recognizes what modern civilization owes to ancient Greece is stirred by the name of Delphi as by no other name except that of Athens. The centre of Greek religion for centuries, the site of its most famous oracle, the meeting-place of its greatest Council, the locality adorned by many of the noblest works of the incomparable genius of the Greeks, and crowded with poetic as well as with historic associations throughout the whole period of the glory of Greece,—Delphi will be forever one of the most sacred seats of the life of the human race. To recover what may now be recovered of the remains of its ancient greatness, to ascertain all that may now be ascertained concerning the character of its famous buildings, to collect the fragments of the works of art which lie buried in the soil, to gather the inscriptions with which its walls were covered, to gain all possible knowledge concerning it,—is a task of the highest honor to those who may accomplish it, and one which Americans may well be proud and glad to undertake.

The precise sum required to secure the expropriation of the ground, and to compensate the inhabitants of Kastri, whose houses now occupy the site of Delphi, cannot be stated. It is probable that about $80,000 will be needed, and that this sum must be secured before the Greek government will grant the concession. The amount has been determined approximately by the surveys and estimates of two commissions of French and Greek engineers. It is for this sum, therefore, that we ask the public.

The Council hopes for an immediate response to this appeal. They trust that every one interested in the progress of classical studies in America, every one who recognizes his own indebtedness to Greece for the most precious gifts of civilization, will contribute according to his means to the proposed work. They will be glad to receive contributions of any amount, and they request that contributions be sent directly to either the President or the Treasurer of the Institute (PERCIVAL LOWELL, 40 Water Street, Boston), or to any other of the subscribers to this appeal.

THE IMPERIAL GERMAN ARCHÆOLOGICAL INSTITUTE.

THE Council is gratified in being able to present to the members of the Archæological Institute of America the following official statement concerning the work and publications of the Imperial German Archæological Institute, to which every student of classical antiquity owes a debt of inextinguishable gratitude. This illustrious society has never made more valuable contributions to the progress of archæological studies than during recent years.

The Imperial German Archæological Institute, being the immediate heir and successor of the former Instituto di Correspondenza Archeologica founded at Rome in 1829, carries on its scientific work from its three centres, at Berlin (Secretary General, Professor A. Conze, President of the Central Direction of the Institute), at Rome (Secretaries, Professor E. Petersen and Dr. C. Huelsen), and at Athens (Drs. W. Dörpfeld and P. Wolters). It aims at promoting the study of the monuments of classical antiquity, particularly those of the Greek, Roman, and Etruscan civilizations.

An immense number of choice and important monuments of architecture, as well as of sculpture and painting, have been published by the Institute in the long series of the Monumenti Inediti (1829-1885), a publication replaced since 1886 by the Antike Denkmäler, which avail themselves of the new and more perfect methods of reproduction (12 large plates a year, 60 plates forming one volume). Papers of larger or smaller extent, dealing with the whole field of Classical Archæology, formed the contents of the Annali (1829-1885), as, since 1886, they form those of the Jahrbuch, which also serves as a continuation of the Archäologische Zeitung (1843-1885), founded by E. Gerhard. Since 1889 the Jahrbuch has been enlarged by the addition of a supplement, the Archäologischer Anzeiger, which, besides a variety of notices and smaller scientific contributions, contains especially the reports of the meetings of the Berlin Archæological Society, and a bibliography as complete as possible of the recent archæological literature of all countries. Two other periodicals of the Institute, the Mittheilungen der athenischen Abtheilung and the Mittheilungen (or Bullettino) der römischen Abtheilung, both of them illustrated by a number of smaller plates, afford news of recent discoveries, and publish special investigations of monuments of Greece and the surrounding lands, and of Italy and other western countries, thus continuing to fulfil on a larger scale a task formerly assumed by the Bullettino and in part by the Annali of the Roman Institute. Finally, the Ephemeris Epigraphica serves as a supplement to the large Corpus Inscriptionum Latinarum, edited for the Berlin Academy by Th. Mommsen and his collaborators, and publishes the Addenda thereto.

Moreover, the Institute has undertaken the complete publication of certain classes of monuments. The illustrations are compared critically with the originals, wherever these may be found, in order to secure copies which may be relied upon, and thus to offer the indispensable foundation for any serious archæological research. Of such a kind are the collection of Etruscan Mirrors, begun by E. Gerhard (4 volumes, 1843 to 1867), and now continued by G. Körte; the collection of the Reliefs of Etruscan Sepulchral Urns, commenced in 1870 by H. Brunn, and being continued also by G. Körte; the series of Ancient Terra-cottas, published under the direction of R. Kekulé, two volumes of which have already appeared; and the collection of Ancient Sarcophagus Reliefs, the editing of which by C. Robert has just begun. In the same line lies the collection of Attic Sepulchral Reliefs, edited by A. Conze for the Vienna Academy, with the support of the Archæological Institute; of this undertaking, too, the first instalment has just been issued (Stuttgart and Berlin, W. Spemann, price, M. 60). All these collections are of equal importance for archæological work with the Corpora Inscriptionum for epigraphical studies.

Another large publication of the Institute, of a peculiar character, is the great Map of Attica, edited by E. Curtius and J. A. Kaupert, a work based on an entirely new survey by officers of the Prussian general staff, and generally acknowledged as the indispensable foundation of a detailed knowledge of the soil and the monumental history of Attica. The Map of Mykenai prepared by Captain Steffen may be regarded as a valuable appendix to this work. Quite recently R. Koldeweij's important monograph on the Ancient Monuments of Lesbos has been published by the Institute, accompanied by a number of maps and plans drawn up by H. Kiepert.

Other special publications will be seen in the following complete list of the publications of the Institute, all of which, except Nos. 12, 13, 18, 19, 22, 23, and 25, either have been published, or are for sale, by the publisher, Georg Reimer, at Berlin.
